

1

An uphill straightaway par 4 starts your day. A right to left tee shot needs to avoid the left fairway bunker. Consider taking a bit more club on the approach to this smallish, narrow green. Leaving it short will yield pars, long is not good.

2

The traditional allure of the Par 3 second is a favorite of mine. The classic bunkering awaits the less than perfect shot and those who chose to play from the tips will be scratching their heads on this one.

3

The reachable Par 5 third begins a stretch of holes that can provide scoring opportunities for those who got game. Keep it straight and success will follow. An accurate play to the small rolling green protected by the left bunker and by trouble long and right will be rewarded.

4

The two majestic firs provide the target off the tee. Before playing to the green beware of the pin position. With any left pin, the wise play is to the middle of the green. The front left bunker is no bargain.

5

The fifth is a classic risk/reward three shotter. There is more room on the left than it looks, but not much more! If the courage is not there, then two good lay ups and a wedge to this "popped-up" green will provide a birdie chance. Anything short will likely meet a watery grave.

6

Take a breath and watch the herons fly by, but don't let them affect your tee ball. The second shot may look easy, but the smallest green on the course is surrounded on all sides by wetlands. Take time to read your putt, as there is more borrow there than you might expect!

7

A good downhill Par 4 requiring a right to left tee shot. The longer hitters will have no more than a wedge to a green that falls away. Attacking a back pin leaves no room for error and the tough chip from over the green will test the best of players.

8

Yes there is a green up there and so are some of the best views on the course. A high soft shot to the correct side of the green is called for here, and long is no bargain. Par will win most of the time!

9

A wonderful finish to the front nine. Be careful not to drive it through the fairway here avoiding the pond. After a good drive this hole should yield some birdies to good iron play. Don't let the gallery from the clubhouse disturb your concentration.

The back nine opens with a classic dogleg left Par 4. A play to the right center of the fairway will open up the green protected on the left by two small bunkers. Not many birdies here!

Don't be deceived by the length! A three metal, long-iron tee shot down the left side will open up the short approach to a green tucked nicely amongst the mature trees. Take time to look up as this maybe the only Eagle chance you get!

12

A great looking Par 3. The green is more receptive and larger than it appears. Pick the right club and don't mess with the back left pin placement.

13

Stand on the tee and admire this three shot beauty. The ten classic bunkers are not to be reckoned with. Three, straight, well-executed shots are needed. Par here deserves a hearty "well done."

14

Wetlands, trees and bunkers, few golf holes capture the power and charm of this Par 4. Take aim at the right fairway bunker off the tee. The approach is to a long, narrow green. An aggressive play for the back pin placement could lead to a big number.

15

The only trick on this Par 3 is convincing yourself of the yardage. There is more green than you can see from the tee. Take enough club, watch the swirling winds and take your best "A-Game Swing." Par is a welcome score here.

16

The secret to the sixteenth is the tee shot. Lay up short of the right bunker with a three metal or try and fit your tee ball in the narrows past it. If you risk the long drive and succeed you will be left with a short iron approach to a green that is deeper than it appears.

17

The classic middle bunker needs to be avoided off the tee. There is a lot of fairway beyond, so relax and give it a go. The approach to the large "popped-up" green must be precisely struck as hazards await right, left and long.

18

This finishing hole, like any good Par 5, will yield plenty of birdies, but also bogies. Avoid the bunkers and beware the challenging green. Our resident eagles may be watching as you make your way back to the clubhouse!
